Scott,

Attached is a PDF of some shots we took about a week ago and the original plans. I would say that this easement is built almost exactly how it was designed. Also, the shots came in a hair high, which I figured they would since all the lots installed sod. I also attached some pictures, If you look at picture 008, you will notice that the builder has pushed some of his dirt into the easement, which I am assuming happened in every single lot because of how close the easement is to the back door. Let me know if you have any questions. Thanks, Justin
